StudioEIS has just completed its installation of a sculpture depicting President Lincoln between the years 1862-64 when he was in residence, at what has become known as President Lincoln's Cottage in Washington DC.

I just wanted to share the two photos and link to the blog at the cottage for any of you who continue to be interested in some old fashioned, but still compelling storytelling.

Landscaping and brickwork will be completed next week and the sculpture will be formally dedicated on Lincoln's 200th birthday next February.

GETTYSBURG, ADAMS COUNTY

A new statue of President Abraham Lincoln will greet visitors to the Gettysburg National Military Park.

The life-sized bronze statue is situated at the front of the museum and visitor center, and is the creation of Ivan Schwartz of Brooklyn, New York. It was unveiled today, on the anniversary of his famous speech, the Gettysburg Address.

"It seems like the right moment to do this. I don't know about the past, and why it hasn't happened before, but it seems like the correct moment now," says Ivan Schwartz, sculptor.

The statue is a gift from philanthropist Robert H. Smith. His family's foundation funds an education initiative that focuses on Abraham Lincoln.
